

Photograph and copyright by David Fenton

WAGING PEACE

U.S. Soldiers and Veterans who Opposed America's War in Vietnam

During America's War in Vietnam, tens of thousands of American GIs and veterans opposed the war. They marched, refused to fight and deserted. They wrote and distributed hundreds of underground newspapers, telling the truth about this unjust war.

The Waging Peace exhibit preserves and promotes this little known history.

It opened at Saigon's War Remnants Museum and at the University of Notre Dame's Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies.

The exhibit garnered positive media coverage, including an op-ed in the New York Daily News, a two page spread in USA Today, and articles in The Guardian, Toronto Sun, South China Morning Post and dozens in Vietnam.

Details about the exhibit and the GI Movement are available at the exhibit website, www.WagingPeaceInVietnam.com. The site features photos of the exhibit panels and links to many books, articles, poetry, photographic collections and documentary films about the antiwar movement within the U.S. military.

Contact us at info@WagingPeaceInVietnam.com